Section 2

Service Specifications

Section 2

Service Specifications

I. Introduction

A. Overview, purpose or need

The Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) federal block grant is intended to help families achieve self-sufficiency. TANF, as defined by the U. S. Department of Health and Human Services, has four purposes:

1. To provide assistance to needy families;
2. To end dependence of needy parents by promoting job preparation, work and marriage;
3. To prevent and reduce out-of-wedlock pregnancies; and
4. To encourage the formation and maintenance of two-parent families.

The U. S. Department of Health and Human Services, Administration for Children and Families, Office of Family Assistance (ACF) has issued a guidance document entitled “Helping Families Achieve Self-Sufficiency: A Guide on Funding Services for Children and Families through the TANF Program” (ACF TANF Guidance). The ACF TANF Guidance encourages the States to use TANF flexibly and in innovative ways to achieve the above-stated TANF goals.

DHS is continuing its efforts to enhance positive youth development and promote teen pregnancy prevention through programs which strengthen families and mentor youth by modeling behaviors, enhancing self-efficacy and resiliency factors by training parents to use simple strategies associated with reading aloud with their children to convey morals and values, help establish literate home environments and increase their children’s chances for academic success.

Research has established that “Children who regularly attend high-quality programs have better peer relations and emotional adjustment, better grades and conduct in school, more academic and enrichment opportunities, spend less time watching TV, and have lower incidences of drug-use, violence and pregnancy” (Working for Children and Families: Safe and Smart Afterschool Programs, Washington, DC: U.S. Departments of Education and Justice, 2000). Therefore, the Deficit Reduction Act of 2005 reauthorized the TANF program with a renewed focus on sustaining and keeping families together.

Since 2007, approximately 6,000 families with over 13,000 children have received training based on reading aloud after school at 37 public schools in Hawaii. These efforts have been demonstrated to serve the intended purposes above. Specific results show families watch less TV and spend more time together; parents are more involved in their children’s learning; and students have an increased interest in reading and a more positive attitude toward school.

In support of TANF purpose four, the State of Hawaii, Department of Human Services (DHS), Benefit, Employment and Support Services Division (BESSD), Employment and Training Program Office are requesting proposals from programs that have been recognized for their positive social impact and can produce evidence of success with the use of reading to mentor and model positive youth development.
